Married Gladys Malcolm, daughter of Augustus Grant Malcolm. We have two children, Marion and Gordon Edmund. I am Anglican, superintendent of St. Barnabas Sunday school, also lay reader at St. Barnabas.

John V. Gray, is a son of William Gray, my father's cousin.

Ledlow Gray is a son of Peter Gray.

In the days when there were so many wild pigeons, my grandfather and his brother William went back into the field with an old musket, that shot bullets that sprayed out. As soon as they fired they picked up 27 pigeons, and strung them on the ramrod. This seems a tall story, but it can be explained by the type of gun, the bullets only going about 15 ft.

SAMUEL GRAY

Another link with the pioneer life of this district was severed on Monday through the death of Samuel Gray, who passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Phillip St. Croix, Church Street, in his 92nd year. Mr. Gray was able to be about the house at times until only a few days before his demise. He had been up town several times during the summer and was able to go to the polls and record his vote at the Provincial election last June. Deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, of Chinguacousy township, where he spent his boyhood. He came to Orangeville when a young man and lived in this town for some years, later moving to the east half of lot 1, con. 1, east, Mono, where he farmed and operated the Mono limekilns for fifty-seven years. About five years ago, he left the farm and came to live with his daughter, Mrs. St. Croix. Mrs. Gray, who was Jane Thompson Widdis, of Chinguacousy, before marriage, died about six year ago. Deceased is mourned by one son, Dalson W. Gray, Orangeville, two daughters, Mrs. P. St. Croix and Miss Adeline Gray, Orangeville, two sisters, Mrs. David Craig, Chinguacousy, and Mrs. John Speers, Brampton, twelve grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. The late Mr. Gray was a member of St. Mark's Anglican church and a staunch Conservative. He was kindly, industrious man and a good neighbor. The funeral, which was attended by a large number of friends and former neighbors, was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. St. Croix to the Forest Lawn cemetery yesterday afternoon.

Children of Mr. Joseph Gray, (cont.)

5 Joseph Everard Gray, born 27 Oct. 1885. I went to high school in Brampton, graduated in 1908. Graduated from Univ. of Toronto in 1912, took my M.A. in 1913, Political Science and Economics. Went to the Great War, with the 198th, as sergeant in the Buffs. Then I took a commission in the Royal Artillery, 215 Siege Battery. Was wounded in the left leg, 16 Sept. 1918. I was in England at Wandsworth Hospital when the Armistice was signed. After returning I taught at McMurrich School, where I had been teaching before going overseas, then went to Eastern Commerce, teaching accountancy and economic history.

Married Gladys Malcolm, daughter of Augustus Grant Malcolm. We have two children, Marion and Gordon Edmund. I am Anglican, superintendent of St. Barnabas Sunday school, also lay reader at St. Barnabas.

John V. Gray, is a son of William Gray, my father's cousin.

Ledlow Gray is a son of Peter Gray.

In the days when there were so many wild pigeons, my grandfather and his brother William went back into the field with an old musket, that shot bullets that sprayed out. As soon as they fired they picked up 27 pigeons, and strung them on the ramrod. This seems a tall story, but it can be explained by the type of gun, the bullets only going about 15 ft.

Samuel Gray, your great grandfather, came to Canada in 1827. Is this correct? From where did he come?

yes. From London, England.
We think the date 1827 is probably correct.

Who was his wife? Did she accompany him?

Not known to those now living. We think his wife must have come to Canada but are not certain.

Had he other children besides William, George Godfrey (your grandfather), Martha, Joseph and Samuel?

and Alfred who went to United States but of whose descendants we have no definite information.

Did they all come to Canada with their father?

Samuel followed later. The others came with their father.

In the case of William, Samuel's eldest son, I understand he married first Margaret Archdekin and second, Susannah Archdekin. Were they sisters? Who were their parents?

yes. They were daughters of Peter Archdekin.

Had William more than 9 children? Which were the children by his first marriage and which by his second? Can you show whom each child married? all by first marriage.
